I know not what record of sin exists in the sinner's soul; but this I do know, that I never

FEELINGS OF MR. LAKIN'S FRIENDS.

Mr. Lakin and his friends in Westfield are not pleased with the outcome of the councilor contest. They are in no way badly displeased toward Mr. Towne, nor will the Republican councilor candidate fail of their support, but there is some soreness felt toward the Westfield men who did not support the Westfield candidate in the convention.

In an editorial, headed "Wounded in the House of His Friends," the Westfield News-Letter of this week speaks of the result as follows:

We think it wise perhaps, for judicial reasons, as we would not do justice to any one, to refrain this week from any lengthy comments on the councilor campaign just closed. When we treat of this matter more fully, we are determined that it shall be with malice towards none, and with charity for all. It is well known however, where the responsibility rests for the defeat of our townsmen. Of course Col. Lakin and his friends feel aggrieved that the result should have been brought about by the means employed. The defeated men are those afflicted in the house of one's friends. They never can be so fully healed as not to leave a scar behind them. If redress is to be sought, counsel should be taken of moderation. Revenge is sweet, but it is not usually profitable. There are wrongs to be righted in this matter, and the power of public opinion will assert itself in condemnation of any persons, or methods which may have been unjustly used to discredit before the world a worthy townsmen.

There is more involved in this to the community than the mere personal satisfaction and loss that would accrue to a well-known and public-spirited citizen. A prominent public position, which would bring to Westfield prestige and honor, has been refused admission to the town, through the door which it sought to enter, and for reasons which we think would hardly appear creditable in the light of investigation. To deliberately "turn down" a townsmen, who would be in a position to help our poorly town, is a matter of universal regret, inasmuch as every citizen is or should be interested in his welfare. It is hardly the thing, when something comes along to help the town, to slam the door in the face of the person that something better may come along in the dim uncertain future. It is no true man as ever, that "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." What Westfield should do is to keep what she has got, to receive what is offered to her, and get what more she can, fairly and honorably. This, to say the least, is business, if it isn't politics.

The News-Letter has been a staunch supporter of Mr. Lakin for councilor. Its references to "wounds inflicted in the house of one's friends," are references to the gashes cut in Mr. Lakin's hopes and aspirations by Arthur Knell, a fellow townsmen and, like Colonel Lakin and Julius Caesar, himself ambitious. That "something better to come along in the dim uncertain future," spoken of by the local organ, is supposedly a congressional nomination, and Mr. Knell is blamed for not wanting Westfield "filled up" with office till he can do the filling.

But we trust the moderation counseled by the News-Letter will be observed. Revenge is certainly not profitable, as is suggested, nor can the Republicans of Westfield afford to have any old scars kept open.

There is almost a suspicious heartiness and enthusiasm among the North Adams Republicans as to Mr. Fuller's nomination and election to the office of sheriff. With one voice they say he has served well as chief of police and therefore, at a time when his service could be more valuable, when a police force must be rearranged for the coming city, they propose his removal to an office in which he has had not the slightest experience, for which he has shown no special capacity, and through which he was for a time turnkey, or something of the sort, at the jail his career there isn't pleasant, in some respects to think about. North Adams, needing him more than ever, is willing to send him away, for, of course, he comes to Pittsfield if he is elected. The office of chief of police in the city of North Adams, will be quite as lucrative as the office of sheriff, in the long run, the former being an appointment during good behavior and the latter political and elective. It would seem to most people that North Adams and Mr. Fuller would be better off if their present relations continued. If he is so wonderfully efficient and useful the Tunnel City ought not to be called upon to sacrifice him to another place—and probably won't be.—Pittsfield Sun.

If this be a sample argument of the Democratic case against Chief Fuller, it is a pretty flimsy case. Mr. Fuller is a stumbling block to the Democratic editor.

Senator Coggeshall, who betrayed the Republican party last year in the New York legislature, and who was repudiated by a constituency which had sent him to the senate for twelve years, is now named as a Democratic candidate for the state senate. Coggeshall's action in the senate last winter prevented not only the passage of the very important police reorganization bill, but also the legislation necessary for ratifying the verdict of the people which was in favor of the creation of the Greater New York municipality. His best friends believe that his political career is ended, for nothing short of wholesale bribery could defeat his Republican opponent to the state senate.

"Dancing and the theatre were condemned by the purity congress at Baltimore yesterday. The words used by the condemning speaker were these: 'The theatre as a lure lures everybody. It wastes the time you may want to account for when you come to die. The ballroom is the place where many of our boys get their first downward impulse and it is our virtuous girls who give them this idea, and not the women of a lower class. The home parlor, too, is often the place where they gain improper ideas by seeing our women in dresses that are really undress.'"

The last legislature of Massachusetts appropriated $400,000 for the construction of highways on a state system, and the construction of macadamized roads is now in progress in seventy different towns. It is expected that out of the 21,700 miles of road in the state, out of the 11 cities, about 2000 will ultimately be taken under the care of the state, for it is a part of the system that after these state roads have been built, the state is to be responsible for their maintenance. That is about ten per cent. of all the roads in Massachusetts will be parts of the state system. The cost of the new roads varies from $5000 to $15,000 a mile, according to amount of rock cutting and expensive grading.—Burlington Free Press.

The voters of this county are urged not to forget that the chief of police of North Adams who has been nominated for Sheriff, an office which he will never fill, is a thoroughbred and that he has lived in several towns of the county.—Pittsfield Journal. Before our Democratic friends are sure that Mr. Fuller will not be sheriff, wouldn't it be well to see if the "thoroughbred" doesn't run at a faster clip than in the first heat? Thoroughbreds always improve with training.

The spectacle of the women of the Purty Congress, under escort of police and clergy, visiting the slums of Baltimore and there holding impromptu services, has excited widespread comment. It is contended that there was more sensationalism in this sporadic crusade than any resultant good. This is a field in which the Salvation Army can and does accomplish more in the regeneration of fallen women than could a thousand Purty Congresses.—Albany Journal.

What business has the Democratic press in this county to advise republicans about the sheriff nomination? Are their purposes good and disinterested or are they to stir up strife and mischief?—Transcript. The Democrats of Berkshire, outside of North Adams, still regard themselves as citizens interested in the welfare of the county and in its officials. The democratic press goes so far as to think this is a free country with free speech still permitted.—Pittsfield Sun.

The registration in New York city Wednesday was $2,311, making a total of 170,633 for two days, as against 201,600 for two days last year. This is a falling off of $1,000, the bulk of the shortage being in the down town districts or Tammany strongholds.

Tom Platt says that the fusion ticket will win by 30,000 in New York city, and that the Republican state ticket will go through with 75,000 votes to spare. We hope Thomas is right about his guesses, even if wrong about everything else.

The innocent little paragraph from the Transcript stirred up almost every Democratic organ in the county. We suppose pointed questions that require disagreeable answers are really impolite.

What matter how the winds may blow,
Or blow they east, or blow they west?
What reck I how the tides may flow,
Since ebb or flood alike is best?
No summer calm, no winter gale
Impedes or drives me from my way;
I steadfast toward the haven sail
That lies, perhaps, not far away.

What matter how the winds may blow,
Since fair or foul alike are best?
God holds them in his hand, I know,
And I may leave to him the rest,
Assured that neither calm nor gale
Can bring me danger or delay,
As still I toward the haven sail
That lies, I know, not far away.

A FINE ANIMAL.

A North Adams Man Buys a Handsome Road Mare in Vermont.

R. H. Sykes is the possessor of as handsome and stylish a road mare as there is in this part of the county. He bought her of H. R. C. Watson, proprietor of the Forest Park farm, Brandon, Vt., and had her sent here by rail last Tuesday. The mare is standard bred, of a beautiful bay color, stands about fifteen and one-half hands high and weighs 930 pounds. She was bred by W. W. Moore of Shoreham, Vt. Her sire was Homestead, son of Nutwood; first dam, Bessie M., by Daniel Lambert; second dam, Lady Herbert; third dam, Lady Barnham, by Hambletonian.

People familiar with horse lore will recognize this as good breeding, which the mare, "Esther M.," shows in every point. She is as sleek and trim as a deer and has trotted in better than 2.40. Still Mr. Sykes did not buy her for a racer, but for his own use, and certainly few men in the parts have anything better for the road. The mare is only five years old and her best days, barring mishaps, are yet before her.

The Blackinton evening schools are progressing finely under the direction of Principal Thomas. The attendance is large and the pupils are very orderly and studious. It is expected another room will be opened Monday evening to accommodate the increasing number of pupils. There is a great desire on the part of the boys and young men of the village to improve school opportunities.

The others are posted in different places, and all the cuts will finally be printed on one large sheet and framed for hanging in public places. The idea takes well and Mr. Browne has met with a good patronage. He devotes a good deal of attention to advertising enterprises, writing advertisements, etc., frequently brings out a new scheme that takes well with the advertising public, as this one certainly does.

TRUE BILL RETURNED.

Rev. F. H. Smith Indicted by United States Court Grand Jury.

Cambridge Folks Stirred Up
Over the Affair.

Some Think Government Officials Acted Hastily
While Others Think Differently.

Boston, Oct. 18.—The United States circuit court grand jury yesterday returned a true bill against Rev. Frank Hyatt Smith, pastor of the North Avenue Congregational church in Cambridge, for the alleged sending of scurrilous and defamatory postal cards through the mail. The indictment was forthwith placed upon the secret file in the clerk's office.

It is stated that the United States authorities in Denver have been most lenient in dealing with Mr. Smith. As he had an engagement on Tuesday evening to dine with Chancellor McDowell of the University of Denver, he was simply notified on Tuesday afternoon that a warrant was out for his arrest, and that he must consider himself in the hands of the government.

The formal arrest was not made until Wednesday, when he appeared before the United States commissioner in Denver and was held in $1000 bail, which was furnished. The accused minister denounces the charges against him as "false and malicious," and declares that his enemies are responsible for them.

It is understood that a special meeting of the North Avenue church will be held at once to take action in the matter. A postoffice inspector from Boston has gone on to take charge of Mr. Smith and to bring him back to this city. He will probably be here the first of next week.

The Feeling in Cambridge.
Some comment has been made in Cambridge, especially by the friends of Mr. Smith, on the way in which the arrest was brought about. It was known, they say, that he would return to Cambridge next week and resume his place in the North Avenue church, where he was to preach again a week from next Sunday. They were inclined to criticize the hasty action of the authorities, as they termed it.

United States District Attorney Hoar simply says that he is employed to do the work of the government, and that the manner in which he has been conducted in this case does not warrant any criticism. The warrant for the arrest was applied for and granted while the authorities still believed that the minister was in Cambridge. They did not know that he had gone to Denver with the expectation of receiving a call to church there when they placed the warrant in the hands of a United States marshal. Having taken the initiatory steps then, the district attorney's office decided to send the warrant on to the officers in Denver, with the result which has followed.

What Conviction Means.
The grand jury began to hear the evidence in the case Wednesday, and several witnesses were examined. The penalty on conviction of the crime of sending scurrilous postal cards through the mails is a fine not exceeding $500, or imprisonment at hard labor for not more than five years, or both, in the discretion of the court.

There is naturally considerable excitement in the North Avenue church over this outcome of the troubles there, and a good deal of interest is also taken in the matter outside of the circle of church members. The accused pastor has many friends, and they are outspoken in their belief in his complete innocence of the charge.

Those who were not so completely on the pastor's side in the former troubles feel that the United States district attorney and the postoffice inspectors know their business, and that they would not have ordered the arrest unless the evidence secured seemed strong enough to them to warrant it.

Wants Pay For Praying.
FITZGERALD, Mass., Oct. 18.—The suit of Jacob Keshner vs. Bernard Goldstein, to recover $150, came up yesterday. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant owes him $150 for praying for him for his deceased father from Oct. 1, 1893, to April 1, 1894. The plaintiff further says the defendant owes him $100 more for services in praying for the defendant. The plaintiff charges 12½ cents an hour for 210 hours for the services of his servants, and 25 cents an hour for himself. A witness testified that Zalmond laid down the rules for prayers for the dead. At least 10 persons raised prayer, or the prayers do not count. The prayer was held up to a verbal agreement. The case is unfinished.

Read For President.

Boston, Oct. 18.—The Lincoln Republican club held its second annual banquet last night in the United States hotel. John S. Richardson presided. Lieutenant Governor Wolcott spoke first. He eulogized Lincoln and his example to the present generation. Hon. John M. Sedgwick of Maine made a speech in favor of Thomas B. Reed as the next candidate for president. He urged all the New England delegates to stand as a unit for an eastern man. Curtis Guild, of Cape Cod, in behalf of the harbor of Boston and the necessity for its immediate improvement.

Mortal Wound Inflicted.

Boston, Oct. 18.—Julius Cohen, 18 years old, is lying at the point of death, suffering from a knife wound in the left breast, inflicted by Lewis Green. Green is now under lock and key, charged with assault and battery with a knife, but it is probable that before he is put into court he will be complained of either on the charge of manslaughter or murder. Cohen was interviewed in regard to the trouble, but all he would say in regard to it was that he received the cut while fooling with Green.

In Favor of the City.

Boston, Oct. 18.—The supreme court yesterday handed down a decision in the Worcester city hall case. The question involved was whether the city had a right to build a new city hall on the Common, by virtue of its own ordinance authorizing the public statutes being foundation by the public statutes without leave of the legislature. By the decision rendered yesterday, the new building can be built in accordance with the vote of the city council.

Ready For Her Trial Trip.

Boston, Oct. 18.—The trial of getting the Indians in trim for her trial was completed last evening. All the boilers and boiler tubes were overhauled and thoroughly cleaned, and clear, fresh water pumped in, before starting the drive. Everything was carefully stowed, so as to offer no impediment to the men in their work today. The trial board left this city on a tender at 7 o'clock this morning.

Coffee Goes Free.

Boston, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Lydia Hadley was shot at Otter Creek last July by George Coffey, who was arraigned at the time and held on the charge of manslaughter for the action of the grand jury as the present term of court in Ellsworth. He claimed the shooting was accidental. The grand jury reported yesterday, but no indictment was returned against Coffey and he was discharged.

MRS. WALLER'S STORY

Of the Misfortunes to Her Husband,
Ex-Consul to Madagascar.

Formal Demand for Release of the Prisoner

May Be Based Upon Two Important Points but Recently Discovered.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Waller, her three daughters and son arrived here today to endeavor to persuade the government to take action toward securing her husband's release.

Mrs. Waller has said she had several interviews at Manassas with the representative of the United States government, but obtained little satisfaction. She left Madagascar Sept. 22, and since Oct. 2 has been in ignorance of her husband's fate until pilots boarded the ship Wednesday. Mrs. Waller talked freely in New York of her husband's case. She said:

"First of all, I am to tell that Minister Rust has been criticized by those who sympathize with my husband, and I want to correct any false impression that may have obtained. Mr. Rust treated us and is treating my husband with the utmost consideration and tenderness. He exerted every possible influence for our assistance and benefit."

"I do not think my husband will live a year in the French prisons, for he was sick a whole year before his arrest on March 23 last. He had fever, contracted at Annaberg, and is now quite feeble in health, though only 47 years old. He has only an hour or so of exercise each day, in charge of a keeper of the prison, which is seven hours by rail from Paris, in the north of France."

"My husband was charged with treason, with aiding to arm the Hovas, and it was set up that the grant of concession of 253 square miles of land in the southwest part of the island of Madagascar was the price he received for aiding the Malagasy."

"Now, in fact, the deed of gift was given months prior to the alleged acts of the treason, and I have forwarded to Secretary Olney documentary evidence sufficient to completely prove the innocence of Mr. Waller."

Two Important Points.
It has been understood all along that the fate of ex-Consul Waller hinged on the proceedings of the court-martial which sentenced him, and, therefore, the state department has directed its efforts mainly to securing a copy of the record of the court. Now, that the record is in Paris, a careful examination of the document has been made, and already there have been developed some points that in the end may form the basis of a demand for the release of the prisoner.

In at least two points it has been found that the proceedings of the court-martial were in violation of the French law, and if such a case arose in the United States this would be sufficient ground for the setting aside of the proceedings and the sentence and the release of Waller. In the first place the court was composed of five officers, whereas the French military regulations are said to require at least seven persons to sit on the court.

But more important than this, it has been discovered that Waller was not really tried as charged, but that as the trial proceeded evidence was taken on another charge not included in the original matter, and that it was upon what might be called a supplementary and irregular charge that Waller was convicted.

Aside from the other points in the case, this matter of irregularity of the proceedings may in the end go far to make up the cause of our government as presented through Ambassador Buxton.

RATIFIED BY SULTAN.

With Reluctance He Agrees to the Armenian Reform Scheme.

Terms, However, Are Not Up to the Standard

But Best Possible Without Creating Breach
Between England and Russia.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 18.—An irate sultan promulgated yesterday announcing that the sultan signed the Armenian reform scheme demanded by the powers.

The newspapers here publish the following official communication: "His majesty, the sultan, whose constant desire has always been to carry out reforms adapted to circumstances and calculated to secure the well-being of his subjects, decided that reforms shall be introduced in all the provinces of the empire, and, first of all, in the province of Anatolia. These reforms will meet the wants of the population and the exigencies of the situation."

"All will be within the limits of existing laws and regulations based on the Hatt-i Humayun of Gulkhanch. They will comprise the increase and reorganization of the gendarmerie and police, and amelioration of administrative and judicial branches of the service."

All the papers emphasize the principle of the equality of all subjects, and appeal to the sultan to see that no distinctions are made.

Sultan's Troubles Not Ended.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—An editorial in the Times this morning says: It will probably be too much to expect the extension of the Armenian reforms to other portions of the Turkish empire, yet nothing would more powerfully consolidate the sultan's real authority.

The Chronicle's Constantinople correspondent says: The sultan has so far accepted the Armenian reforms by consenting to the reform of that the minister was obliged to ignore him to sign the document. I fear that English opinion will be greatly disappointed when the terms of the reform scheme become known. But nothing better could be obtained without the appearance of the British fleet in the Dardanelles, which would have involved the instant disruption of the triple entente (between England, Russia and France), and probably a Russian occupation of Armenia.

Sir Philip Currie, therefore, has done the best possible without causing a serious breach between England and Russia. This temporary solution, however, will not save the sultan from an outbreak of dangerous anti-dynastic feeling, of which the sultan will probably be the victim. The Chronicle believes that the British fleet will remain at Lemnos, in the Aegean sea, which is about 50 miles from the mouth of the Dardanelles, until adequate guarantees for the execution of the Armenian reforms have been given.

The Daily News (Liberal organ), commenting on the same subject, presumes that the powers have accepted a Muslim, instead of a Christian, high commissioner. If so, says the Daily News, it will be a severe disappointment to Armenia's best friends. It is evident that the concert of the powers has been more apparent than real.

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 18.—The chances for a meeting at Hot Springs on Oct. 31 between Corbett and Fitzsimmons appear to be much brighter now than at any time during the past few days. Indeed, it would now seem that the only obstacle to the way of the men meeting in a glove contest is Fitzsimmons' expressed determination not to agree to the revised articles.

The fact that Corbett is under arrest on a warrant sworn out by State Attorney League so soon after Governor Clarke's visit to the Springs leads many people to believe that the governor settled the whole matter. Should Corbett be released on a writ of habeas corpus, of which there seems to be little doubt, it is believed there will be no further interference on the part of the governor, since the granting of the writ would in effect be a judicial declaration that boxing in Arkansas is not a violation of the law.
